History of April

April was originally the second month of the year in the Roman calendar and consisted of 30 days. It became the fourth month consisting of only 29 days when January was designated the first month of the year around 450 BCE. April became 30 days long again when Julius Caesar reformed the calendar.

Yet on the lips of many is the old saying "April showers bring May flowers." The chilly winds and damp weather are not yet done. April then is a hopeful month showing the promise of beauty in the not too distant future.

Easter most often falls during April. Easter is the commemoration of the death and resurrection of Jesus. Many of the rituals surrounding its celebration have pagan origin including hiding Easter eggs. Eggs are a symbol of fertility and new life.

April also plays host to April Fools Day, the first day in April. On this day practical jokes are practiced on the unwary (and often the wary as well). This tradition seems to have originated in France where New Years Day was celebrated during Medieval times on the 1st of April. Gregory XIII changed it back to the 1st of January in 1582. Many people in rural areas did not make the change for several years.

April has also been designated National Poetry Month, Jazz Appreciation Month, and Be Vigilante Against Child Abuse Month.
